Emily Dickinson: Writing Nature Poems

Grade Level: 9 to 12

Developed by Suzanne Strauss, Northampton High School & Susan Ebitz, Jackson Street School, Northampton, and used in Grade 4 and High School

Community Partners: Emily Dickinson Museum & Northampton Education Foundation

Overview/Rationale for Lesson:
High school students and elementary school students meet in a garden to read an Emily Dickinson poem about nature and write their own poems inspired by her model and informed by direct sensory observations.

Learning Objectives:
- Students will read and discuss nature imagery in a poem by Emily Dickinson.
- Students will write a poem based on direct observation and inspired by the format, imagery and graphic conventions of Dickinson’s poem.
- Students will make oral presentations of their poems to the group.

Lesson Plan Procedure

Preparatory Activity:
Time: 10 minutes (plus travel time to outdoor setting)

Note: Students meet in an outdoor setting (this lesson took place at the Rose Garden at Child’s Park in Northampton).

Step 1. Introduce the nature poetry session. 5 minutes.
- Gather students in a circle, explain that they will be reading and writing nature poems outdoors in the garden and set guidelines and expectations.
- Distribute and read aloud a poem on the theme of nature written by Emily Dickinson: “This is my letter to the World” (see “Resources” for link). 5 minutes

Main Activity:
Time: 40 minutes

Step 2. Read aloud, “Nature is what We see” (see “Resources” for link), and give directions for poetry writing activity. 10 minutes.
- Hand out poem, writing directions (see “Resources” for link), clipboard, lined paper and pencil to each small group.
- Read aloud poem several times, inviting students and/or other adults to read aloud individual stanzas.
- Review directions and expectations for writing a poem inspired by Dickinson’s poem.

Step 3. Students work in small groups, spreading out around the outdoor area, first completing the handout and then composing a poem on lined paper. 30 minutes. (see “Resources” for link)
Conclusion/Follow-Up to Activity:
Time: 15-20 minutes
Step 4. Students gather in a circle and do a poetry reading. 10-15 minutes.
Step 5. Whole group does a choral reading of “Nature is what We see.” 5 minutes.

Additional Notes on Lesson Plan:
This lesson is the culmination of “Emily Dickinson: Person, Poetry and Place,” a sequence of collaborative lessons for high school students and 4th graders. See Emily Dickinson: Close Reading (link from Resources) for background.
